Street Narcotics & Gang Bureau - Nassau County District Attorney's Office

A presentation on heroin addiction
on Long Island...

No child is immune
from this growing problem.

*“Heroin is back on Long Island, and it is killing people at a record pace...
The heroin being sold on LI is deadlier and cheaper than ever.*

A bag on the street costs about $6 or $7, less than a pack of cigarettes.

*What makes the situation even more dangerous
is the misconception among users that snorting or sniffing heroin, rather than injecting it, will not lead to addiction.”*

- NY Times Editorial July 30, 2009

Heroin addiction is difficult to spot in its early stages...

learn the signs of addiction and ways to try and combat the problem.
